FARMVILLE.

Farmville, like nature, is waking to new life. Not content with her present hotel conveniences (and they have been greatly improved of late) a veritable Jefferson is seriously discussed, and the lot in front of the Presbyterian Church, on Third street, has been designated as the site. The location is ideal and the new structure is to be ideal, too, and the Lithia Springs property, it is reported, has passed into new hands, and here, too, extensive improvements are projected. The wonder is that this very valuable property hasn't long since received the attention to which it is entitled. The water is a remedial as the far-famed Buffalo lithia, and this made its owner, the late Col. Thos. F. Goode, "the noblest Roman of them all," a millionaire. To accomplish this, however, he called to his aid printer's ink, and used it judicially and wisely, and so used it has no superior and few equals as a money-maker. In the meantime the normal buildings are being pressed to a finish, and there is not a square in town upon which the sound of the hammer and saw is not heard.

Our commission merchants look as though they were emerging from a prosperous year. The tobacco of the last season has about all been sold, and farmers and merchants know where they stand.

And now the fertilizer is being hauled out in large quantities for another venture, and though labor is scarce the planting will go on as of yore. Brave men, these farmers, and trusting to the God of sunshine and of storm and their own strong arms they are going to make another chivalric fight in the interest of the thronging masses who crowd our cities. They feed this world and should themselves live on the best.

The windows of our stores never presented a more attractive appearance, and I do not understand why it is that any of our people have to go or send to the cities for food or raiment of any kind. It is a habit which has become all too general. The citizens of Farmville order from Richmond, and Richmond sends to New York, and New York sends to Paris, and to what point Paris looks I have no idea. The Parisians may have pride enough to buy at home.

The "roses have come again" and commencement bonquets will not come so high.

Carlisle Venable, of the Planters' Bank, attended the session of the Executive Committee of Virginia Bankers, which met in Norfolk recently.

President Jarman was in Richmond on last Wednesday.

Rev. W. G. Flournoy, a Farmville boy, who has been preaching in West Virginia, has been called to Danville, where he will do missionary work in suburban places.

Some of our young folks have been greatly excited of late on account of persistent rumors that a wolf is abroad in our community and that he is devouring all young animals he finds in his wanderings. As yet no child is reported lost.

The Fogus residence is near completion.

Mr. D. T. Elam is having two new houses built. One will be occupied by Prof. Messenger, of the Normal faculty, the other by Rev. Mr. Littleton and daughter.

The Cunningham homestead, which will be occupied by President Jarman, will be altered and improved.

Mr. R. H. Paulett is having additions made to his house.

Miss Ida Thackston's residence shines out attractively in a new coat of paint.

Mrs. Kate Anderson has returned from a Richmond hospital nothing improved.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Richardson and Mrs. R. S. Paulett were shopping in Richmond last week.

The Normal girls find it difficult to secure orators for their commencement exercises. Most of the available material seems to have been engaged.

Dr. Sears, of the Normal faculty, has sent in his resignation. He proposes prosecuting his studies elsewhere.

Judge and Mrs. A. D. Watkins will attend the marriage of their nephew, Mr. R. N. Watkins, in Atlanta. Mr. Watkins will marry a daughter of Rev. W. W. Landman, D.D., the leading Baptist divine of the South.

One way to gain lots of relatives is to die rich and leave no will.

The Wreck on Concord Hill.

On last Friday morning, May 11, the Norfolk & Western Railway had the most disastrous wreck of its history in recent years at a point about 200 yards west of six-mile bridge which resulted in the killing of four men and injuring four others. Those killed were: A. F. Carroll, fireman, Lynchburg, Va.; Eddie B. Idurant, learning the duties of firemen, Forest, Va.; J. A. Waldron, fireman, Roanoke, Va.; William Langhorn, colored brakeman, scalded and died from injury.

Injured: A. S. Wood, engineer, Lynchburg, Va., left shoulder dislocated; J. B. Farley, engineer, Roanoke, Va., left shoulder dislocated; Henry Scott, colored brakeman, foot sprained; James Hart, learning duties of fireman, leg broke and badly scalded. James Hart died about 8 o'clock last Monday night.

Train first No. 92 was on the siding at James River and train second No. 92 was at the Island yard waiting for No. 16. As soon as No. 16 cleared the block at James River second No. 92 left Island yard with a light train, and as soon as the block was clear at Spicer train first No. 92 left James River with a heavy tonnaged train. Second No. 91 was allowed to follow under a caution signal in five minutes, the former train running about 13 miles an hour and the latter about 30 miles an hour, overtaking the train ahead at the place of accident, which was on a very stiff curve, and there being such a dense fog second No. 92 ran into the rear of first No. 92, which had two engines on the rear of the train serving as pusher. Three cars were badly demolished and two of the engines badly broken up. All traffic was totally cut off for nine hours. A temporary track was secured by 12:30 p. m. A large force of men and wreck cars were engaged all day Saturday and Sunday cleaning up the wreckage. The wreck cars from Crewe and Roanoke were immediately ordered and soon arrived. A coach in charge of undertakers and Dr. Dillard was sent from Lynchburg and reached the scene in a few hours. The dead bodies and injured ones were soon loaded up and taken back to Lynchburg. Brakeman William Langhorn was badly scalded from his hips down and died from the injury Friday evening. The Norfolk & Western have done a greater amount of business in the last month than ever before, and this is the first wreck of its kind to occur during the movement of the large business.

German cities are passing ordinances prohibiting women from allowing their trains to drag in the street. Not long ago a woman in this country was arrested for holding up a train.

A genuine lock of Charles Dickens' hair sold for $40 and every cinder Mr. Rockefeller thinks of a relic rizes that one way of adding to his income is forever closed to him.

If there is any rate bill amendment that has not been introduced, the White House trot it out, for it is one on us.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. "This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

The Watcher.

The night is cold and dark and black,
The moon is hidden behind
The dark clouds driving rack on rack
As they come drifting on the wind.

The sea wails like an angry wolf
With foam-curled, hungry lips,
As it dashes out upon the rock,
Then backward snarling slips.

The stars have left the bowl of night,
They are too cold to shine
Since that one night so long ago
Where love alone was mine.

The cold wind comes through the crevised floor
And sets out to the withered pine,
It steals beneath my chamber door,
Then out again 'twill whine.

I am so stud love fell asleep
Before it felt this cold.
Better that it should cease to sob and weep
While its still small hand I hold.

Better to sit here within this room,
With stern duty watching us,
Than have to soothe and soothe again
Till the grief grew hideous.

Better love should sob himself to sleep
With the withered violets in his hand
Than he should wake again to weep
His eyes filled with love's demand.

Better to sit here with the cold and dark
enfolding us
In this strange loneliness and chill
Than love should wake and sob and weep
With grief that does not kill.

Better that he should lie there with the violets dead
Than wake and call a certain name,
Better that I life's lonely path should tread
Than bind with love's old shame.

Dear God, my God, will you not send
Your lightning's flame to leap
And take this life and scarred heart?
But leave me not this long, dark watch to keep.

CARLINE CALOWAY.

Red House, Va.

Buckingham.

The meeting held here on the 14th in the interest of the soldiers' monument was a success in every way, socially, financially and intellectually. First, we had a "feast of humor and flow of soul" in a two-hours speech by Col. James Marshall, of Craig. The speaker was gracefully introduced by Col. R. T. Hubard, who said he had stood shoulder to shoulder with him in the Legislature in trying to save to the State the old Kanawah canal, and speaking of Col. Marshall as a big hearted man. Col Marshall opened by addressing himself to soldiers of every flag, colored men of every hue. He then told of deeds of valor done by the Confederate soldiers, how at Antietam 35,000 Confederates, who were in a half starved condition, drove back 90,000 Federal soldiers. Everybody sings the praises of the Confederates, down in his heart is the love of home and the love of God. He has gone along filling the offices of duty and of destiny, and (turning to Mr. E. W. Hubard) oh, Edmund, all the offices of emolument he could get. Then turning to the ladies he said the smile of woman was the sweetest thing that had ever (patting his heart) played under his homespun jacket. Then turning to Sheriff Williams he said, Ben Johnson was a man modeled like you and I, and after he had found a woman that would consent to marry him she told him she had a secret she felt bound to divulge to him as a husband before him to say if he wanted her. She then told him she had an uncle who was hung. He said, why that is nothing. I had nine who ought to have been hung. The speaker said, I want to die with a smile on my face. I want it written of me that I made more people laugh than cry. I have seen a Confederate soldier presiding over the Senate of the United States. I have seen one a judge of the Supreme Court. They have gotten all the good offices they could get. Someway, somehow, in the great beyond, I think there will be a Confederate reunion. He spoke of how few of the old commanders were now living, and mentioned M. B. Forest, the son of a blacksmith, who could not write an English sentence correctly, and yet was great on the field of battle. Said Forest was never known to write but one dispatch and this was when appealed to by some command to know what to do, he wrote, "Fite 'em." In 500 years to come the thing which will be attempted will be to prove descent from some Confederate soldier. The speaker said he did not think people would be kept out of heaven because they told little white stories or else there would be no one there except our Lord and George Washington. Turning again to the ladies he said, if the men will not raise the money to build a monument here, I know you will do it. The ladies served dinner on the grounds, from the sale of which some $60 or more was realized, and prominent ladies in each district of the county have in hand the matter of raising funds, and some of them have already handsome sums on hand. Mr. Decca Shepard made a donation of $40, and by the time the Autumn shades shall gather again we hope the monument will be an assured fact.

The Board of Supervisors passed a resolution subscribing $3000 to build a bridge across James River at Scottsville provided Albemarle county would pay the same, and the town of Scottsville pay $8000 and keep the bridge in repair. Five votes are recorded in favor of this $3000 subscription, Mr. Forbes, of Francisco district casting the only negative vote. It is a "heap" easier to vote away $3000 than it is to pay it.

I forgot to mention in the proper place the neat manner in which the soldiers meeting by Mr. E. W. Hubard, which did much credit to him and was much complimented he said it was extemporaneous too.

Dillwyn.

The Buckingham county council of Society of Equity met here in called session on Saturday to recommend to the State Chairman a suitable man as organizer of local Unions for Buckingham county delegates were present from six local Unions and J. W. Hebdith of Arcanum was unanimously chosen as the man for the place, thus settling the rivalry that has existed hitherto between Messrs. Baughan and Elam as contestants for the honor. Mr. Hebdith will be ready to go, on call to any point in the county where ten or more citizens desire to start a local Union, white or colored.

By special invitation Mr. Edd Boudurant, of Prince Edward County was present at this meeting and for an hour entertained us with a graphic account of the aims, purposes and progress of the organization. He was listened to with great attention, and his plain, practical talk was very much appreciated. Mr. Bondurant consented to be at Sheppards on June 2nd and address the citizens of South Buckingham on the all-important subject, and every farmer will be well repaid by him doing some sacrifice if necessary to hear him—time 11:30 a. m. 1st Saturday in June at Sheppards.

On the Southside.

There will be preaching at Forest Church next Sunday at 3 p. m. by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Chocolette.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, conducted by Supt. E. R. Abbitt. We hope our old superintendent, Dr. W. H. Abbitt, will soon be well enough to attend; we miss him so much.

Two homes near Spring Mill have been made sad by death during the last two weeks. Mr. Wesley Nash died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nash, May 10. He contracted cold about two years ago and never got over it. He was a member of the church, a good, pious, Christian boy; had many business qualities and, no doubt, looked forward to a prosperous future, as so many do who are cut down in the prime of life. He left a young wife, mother, father, six brothers and four sisters to grieve for him. He was laid to rest in the family burying ground. A large number of friends and relatives were present to pay the last tribute of respect to the loved one. The flowers were beautiful which covered the mound. He married Miss Minnie Ferguson, granddaughter of your old townsman, Mr. J. T. Lee. His sister, Mrs. Hester Wooldridge, came from Lynchburg to attend the burial.

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding
O'er the spoils that death has won,
We, as at this solemn meeting,
Calmly say, "Thy will be done."

Though cast down we're not forsaken,
Though afflicted not alone,
Thou didst give and thou hast taken:
Blessed Lord, "Thy will be done."

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin was made sad yesterday afternoon by the death of their little two-year old son, Rupert. He had been sick but a short while and he will be missed so much. Mrs. Tom Lane and brother, Mr. Milton Martin, of Roanoke, and Mr. Jamie Martin, of West Virginia, are expected home to attend the burial, which will take place to-morrow afternoon in the family burying ground at the home of Mr. Tom Nash. Both families have the sympathy of a host of friends, and especially of the writer.

The once loved form, now cold and dead,
Each mournful thought employs,
And nature weeps, her comforts fled,
And wither'd all her joys.

Then cease, fond parents, cease thy tears,
Bethlehem points on high:
There everlasting spring appears
And joys which cannot die.

Mr. Hunter Sims and sister, Miss Irons, of Spout Spring; Messrs. George Coleman, Earl Cheatham, of Appomattox, and Mr. Omah Farrar, from Evergreen, were the guests of Mr. Chas. Sims and Miss Odelle last Sunday.

Mr. Frank Wooldridge will leave to-day for Lowry and Lynchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Mann and little son Ryland, spent last Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sims. They were accompanied by Mrs. Net Mann, Mrs. T. W. Moses and children.

Was Wasting Away.

"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robert B. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure

In Memory.

BALDWIN.—In loving remembrance of Berta Barksdale Baldwin, who departed this life two years ago to day May 17th 1904.

Friends may think we might in time forget
And our wounded hearts would quickly heal,
But they little know the bitter sorrow
Death's within our hearts concealed.

Spring Mills.

Little Schubert, youngest son of Mr. Robert Martin died May 20th after a very illnessing. Sabath School at Falling River this season, under the supervision of Mr. Nash.

The farmers are busy preparing tobacco land for this year's crop of the weed. It seems that the efforts of the A. S. of E. has put new life in the farmers, and they can cultivate this plant with more interest. The gardens will be late as to first planting was entirely killed by frost.

There is a fine dog visiting this neighborhood. The owner can get it if it is rightly described.

Mrs. L. T. Morris and little daughter, Mary Louise, made a flying trip to see her brother's family, Mr. R. H. Chilton, on last week.
